TOO MANY FLIES.—Chicago seems to be a sort of fly paradise, according to one of our exchanges, and the "old inhabitant" vouches for the truth of the story that this year beats the worst record in the fly nuisance at the restaurants and about the city. A good story is told how Mr. Billy Baxter cleared his establishment of his winged visitors, and here it is:
Since the fire, Chicago can boast of many good, bad, and indifferent restaurants. Wherever there is met a saloon, or a clothing store, or a gambling room, or a jewelry shop, or a theatre, there is located a restaurant or a lunch-room. No sooner was a table set in one of these places than the flies were on it. When hungry mortals undertook to dine, there ensued a fight for the spring chicken, or the broiled salmon, or the raspberry roll. If the man was lucky enough to get it, he enjoyed not only the meal, but the consolation of knowing he had finished scores of the troublesome pests.

Billy Baxter had long been troubled at his restaurant on west Madison street with the flies. He had tried every way possible to rid the house of them, but all in vain. They laughed at poisoned paper, and as for those ingeniously contrived wire traps, they stood on the castors and on the cigar-cases, and actually turned up their little noses. It was becoming more and more annoying, and even Billy's good nature was fast becoming impatient.

On Wednesday afternoon a green-looking sort of chap stepped into the restaurant and informed Baxter that he could rid his house of flies, and that he would do so for the small sum of $2. Billy's big belly shook with delight, and he closed the bargain on the spot, only stipulating the money would not be paid until the absence of the flies could be noted.

The green-looking chap took from a dilapidated carpet-sack a hemispherical case nearly a foot in length and three or four inches in diameter. He laid this torpedo-like arrangement on the floor in the middle of the room, sprinkled a layer of powder for nearly two yards, then applied a match. Almost instantly there was an explosion. The "business" had busted with a terrific roar. So had the windows, and the crockery, and the flooring, and a whole pile of new white hats. There wasn't a water-pitcher, or a fly to be found in the room. And worse still the queer-looking chap had departed without leaving his card. Whether he is the proprietor of a rival saloon, or was Belzebub in disguise, no one can tell. It is only certain that whoever asks Baxter would be like to be rid of his flies will have to look out for a broken head.

A ROAD CYLINDER.—Mr. W. M. Bernard, blacksmith and wagon maker of Salina county, California, proposes to exhibit at the California State Fair a road cylinder which he is confident will revolutionize the construction of wagons. It is a combination of a barrel within a barrel, and like an ordinary carriage is destined to be drawn by horses. The shell perspective looks like a wine vat lying on its side. Within this is placed another cylinder closed at the ends and upon the outside of which are three tracks of iron, conforming to three within the other cylinder. To the centres of this inner cylinder the shafts are attached. The freight is placed in the inner cylinder and the machine is ready to go. The force required to move it is just equal to the force that would be required to slide the inner cylinder on three rails well oiled. It is in one sense a sled, which lays a track for itself as it goes. Experiments have been made with one roughly constructed, only four feet in diameter, which was freighted with 2,300 pounds of iron and seven men on the outside, which was carried easily over level roads by one horse. The tracks were rough, and the entire model imperfect, but the experiment greatly encouraged the inventor, who has applied for a patent.—Balt. Gazette.

COFFEE AS A DEODORIZER.—The Poona (British India) Observer says:—After numerous experiments with roasted coffee, the result proves that it is one of the most powerful means, not only of rendering animal and vegetable effluvia innocuous, but of actually destroying them. A room in which meat in an advanced degree of decomposition has been kept for some time was instantly deprived of all smell on an open coffee-roaster being carried through it containing a pound of coffee newly roasted. In another room the effluvia occasioned by the clearing out of a cesspool, so that sulphuretted hydrogen and ammonia could be clearly detected, was completely removed by three ounces of fresh coffee. The best mode of using it as a deodorizer is to dry the raw bean, pound it in a mortar, and then roast the powder on a moderately heated iron plate until it assumes a dark brown hue, when it is ready for use. It must, however, be remembered that the coffee, to be effectual, should be perfectly pure. Adulterated rubbish will only make matters worse, and it has not yet been discovered that chichory possesses any deodorizing qualities.

HEAPS OF SILVER.—The Caribon mine, up in Boulder county, is the representative mine in that district, if not, indeed, in the Territory, though in seeing it we have not seen all the rest concentrated in one. About the mouth of the mine is always a heap of ore. There is a princely fortune in those piles of quartz, which to the uninitiated eye is but a heap of broken rock, fit only for building walls or macadamizing public streets. Once in the shafts, a close inspection shows that the walls, the ceiling, the floors, are of silver, even the very dust in the bottom of the shaft is one-fourth silver. Here is a lump that yields a dollar a pound, another two, another three, another five, and so on. They say that there is a million dollars worth of silver piled before one's eyes in those gloomy shafts and levels. Talk of the power of gunpowder, of steam, of the whirlwind, of the earthquake, here is a power which is greater than all! Their operations are but local, partial, and temporary; this can replace what they destroy—this can rebuild what they have hurled down.—Denver News.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

TAKE SIMMONS'

LIVER DISEASE and indigestion prevail to a greater extent than probably any other malady, and relief is always to be found in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver, causes headache, constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, Gout, Rheumatism, Stomach troubles, Stomach attacks, Biliousness, attacks of the Heart, Depression of Spirit, &c.

REGULATOR.

The symptoms of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side, sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and it is mistaken for Rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general constipated, sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensations of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Of late complaints of weakness, dizziness, and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the Liver is generally the organ most involved.
